

In-Office Cryosurgical Systems Offer Fast Freeze and Precise Control

WITH A LARGE SELECTION OF CRYOTIPS

Wallach LL100™ System (N₂O)

Wallach's exclusive two-trigger cryosurgical system performs freeze and defrost in less time than passive defrost systems. The physician has ultimate control with the LL100's two-trigger design because it allows for freeze and defrost only when triggered. A wide selection of highly conductive, thermal and reusable cryotips can be changed at any time without venting.

- Lightweight, well-balanced and maneuverable in-office system
- Provides full view of the target tissue for cryoablation
- Choose from 23 autoclavable cryotips with disposable plastic shields

Single-Trigger Design is Optimized for CO₂ Gas

For those physicians who prefer a CO₂ system, Wallach offers the LLCO₂™ single-trigger cryosurgical system. The system maximizes temperature for ablation while minimizing the clogging and sputtering commonly associated with CO₂ gas.
